

Michail Vikelis is a Headache Specialist currently working at Glyfada Headache Center and at Mediterraneo Hospital Headache Center in Glyfada, Greece. He possesses a neuroscience background underpinned by a medical degree, a Greek Board Certification in Neurology, a Master's degree in Headache Medicine and a PhD. Skilled in the areas of Headaches, has a long experience in practicing headache medicine, and has acted as a principal investigator in phase III and IV migraine trials. Has authored or co-authored publications in peer-reviewed medical journals and chapters in textbooks. Having worked for 8 eight years in the pharmaceutical industry, is experienced in the development and implementation of medical scientific launch strategies, medical education projects, medical affairs phase III trials support, clinical protocol input and review and phase IV design, and execution and management of a medical team.